The text on the page is in Punjabi and appears to be a government notice or announcement. The content is written in a formal tone, using legal and bureaucratic language. The text is not easily readable due to the handwriting style and the use of Punjabi script.

The text seems to be an official document, possibly related to social services or employment assistance. The presence of names, numbers, and official logos suggests that it might be a form or application for benefits or services.

Without being able to transcribe the text accurately, it is challenging to provide a meaningful summary or interpretation of the document. However, it is clear that the document is of official nature and intended for a specific audience, likely individuals seeking assistance or information related to employment or social services.